Dear Partner,

With the onset of Coronavirus COVID-19 and the impact we are seeing worldwide, Woodland Foods is continuing to prioritize meeting customer requirements as they relate to food safety and product demand.

Woodland Foods is not currently experiencing a high risk of inventory stock-outs for items sourced from China, Northern Europe, or other countries impacted by COVID-19. Woodland Foods will be actively monitoring all risk in our supply chain, and we are in continuous communication with our global sourcing partners on the status of product availability, capacity, and shipment status. We are seeing spikes in demand for certain product categories, however as of this statement, we are well stocked in bean, rice, grain (quinoa) categories with available supply.

Specific information on stock levels, contingency plans, and sourcing strategies are proprietary to our business; however, we remain committed to open communication and working with your demand plans to address any concerns. Updates for contracted items and quantities will continue to be prioritized and communicated to those partners directly.

Woodland Foods does not see a risk of the COVID-19 virus being transmitted through imported product. The FDA has released recent statements affirming this, as well as outlining their actions concerning the virus. As one FDA statement notes, there is no evidence that the COVID-19 can be transmitted through product imports. This, along with additional information can be found on their website (www.fda.org). Nonetheless, Woodland Foods' top priority is food safety and the health of our employees and partners. We will continue to adhere to strict Good Manufacturing Practices within our AA BRCGS facilities while holding our suppliers to the highest standards of food safety.

We value our partners and safety and well-being of all those involved in the supply chain. If you have any additional questions or concerns, please contact your Woodland Foods representative. Woodland Foods' representative will continue to be available throughout normal business hours.

Sincerely,

Paul Nagy
